1. The idea

It all starts with a simple question: why has technology transformed every aspect of our lives, except the way we sleep?

We spend about one-third of our existence in bed, yet the mattress has remained essentially unchanged for decades. Meanwhile, we wear smartwatches that track our heart rate, live in homes that respond to our voice, and stream movies anywhere—except comfortably from bed, with a solution truly designed for that purpose.

Snorlax was born from this contradiction. The idea is to create a mattress that is not just a place to sleep, but a real intelligent ecosystem: capable of monitoring sleep in real time, analyzing sleep stages through integrated sensors, and providing clear data and personalized advice to improve quality of life. And, for those who love to relax with a show before falling asleep, it integrates an entertainment system directly into the bed.

The name Snorlax is no coincidence: it evokes the idea of deep, heavy, restorative sleep—the kind everyone wishes to have every night.

The market is there: around 30% of adults sleep poorly, and the demand for wellness solutions is constantly growing. What's missing is a product that combines technology, health, and comfort into one coherent experience. Snorlax aims to be exactly that.

Market Size and Trends

The global smart mattress market is rapidly expanding. The wellness and sleep sector is worth billions of euros worldwide, with annual growth rates above 7–10%. In Italy, awareness around preventive health and sleep quality is steadily increasing, driven by the spread of wearable devices and a growing wellness culture.

The Problem We Solve

- Traditional mattresses offer no data or feedback on sleep quality;
- Sleep tracking via wearables (smartwatches, bands) is uncomfortable and often inaccurate;
